

Caught in the act

A boy walks out of school and up to two other boys his age. He says 'hey' but the boys reply 'get lost' then they have an idea and say 'hang on do you want to join us?'. The new boy says 'yeah what do I have to do'? They reply 'you just have to spray your tag' and throw a can of spray paint to him which he catches.

The new boy follows the guys as they start walking. They arrive at an urban underpass and the boys tell the new boy to spray his tag, his street name. Music starts playing as the new boy sprays his tag on a wall.

We see two police officers walking down a nearby street and as the camera cuts back to the boy who is just finishing his tag, the two police officers round the corner and catch him in the act. They put their hands on his shoulders to arrest him and the film stops then rewinds back to the moment when the new boy had been thrown the can of spray paint.

We see a still of him at that moment, holding the can of paint, the moment when he could have said no and the text appears, 'What would you do?'
